

Theories of Cosmic Acceleration

Tuesday, May 29, 2018 8:40 AM (35 minutes)

I will survey our understanding of cosmic acceleration, both in the late and early universe. The focus will be on recent theoretical developments in the study of dark energy and in the physics of inflation. We will also discuss constraints both from current and future observations.

E-mail

austin.joyce@columbia.edu

Primary author: Dr JOYCE, Austin (Columbia University)

Presenter: Dr JOYCE, Austin (Columbia University)

Session Classification: Plenary 1

Track Classification: CPDE