With many cases on the rise, COVID-19 is bringing about two types of crises: a global health pandemic, and an increase in xenophobic and anti-Chinese/anti-Asian racism, discrimination, harassment, bullying, and violent attacks. How do we combat these sentiments and behaviors in the age of the Coronavirus?

Join us as we discuss the following: current cultural context, past policies in Asian-American history, the Lab's nondiscrimination policy and how to report incidents, and tips on how to be an Upstander and ally.

New: Parents Network For Lab Employees – April 23, 2020

April 20, 2020

Berkeley Lab is launching a Parents Network for employees. The objective is for members to share tips, resources, activity ideas, and other helpful tools for supporting parents and their families, especially given the current challenges with shelter in place. Resources shared can be internal or external to the Lab. This will be an informal group with an email listserve (members can view the list of people in the network), and meetings will be determined by members as needed.

The kick-off “meet and greet” for members will be on Thursday, April 23 from 11:00 a.m.-12:00 p.m. on Zoom. If you are interested in joining, please complete this Google Form prior to the event. Babies and children are, of course, welcome to join on Zoom.

Date: Thursday, April 23, 2020

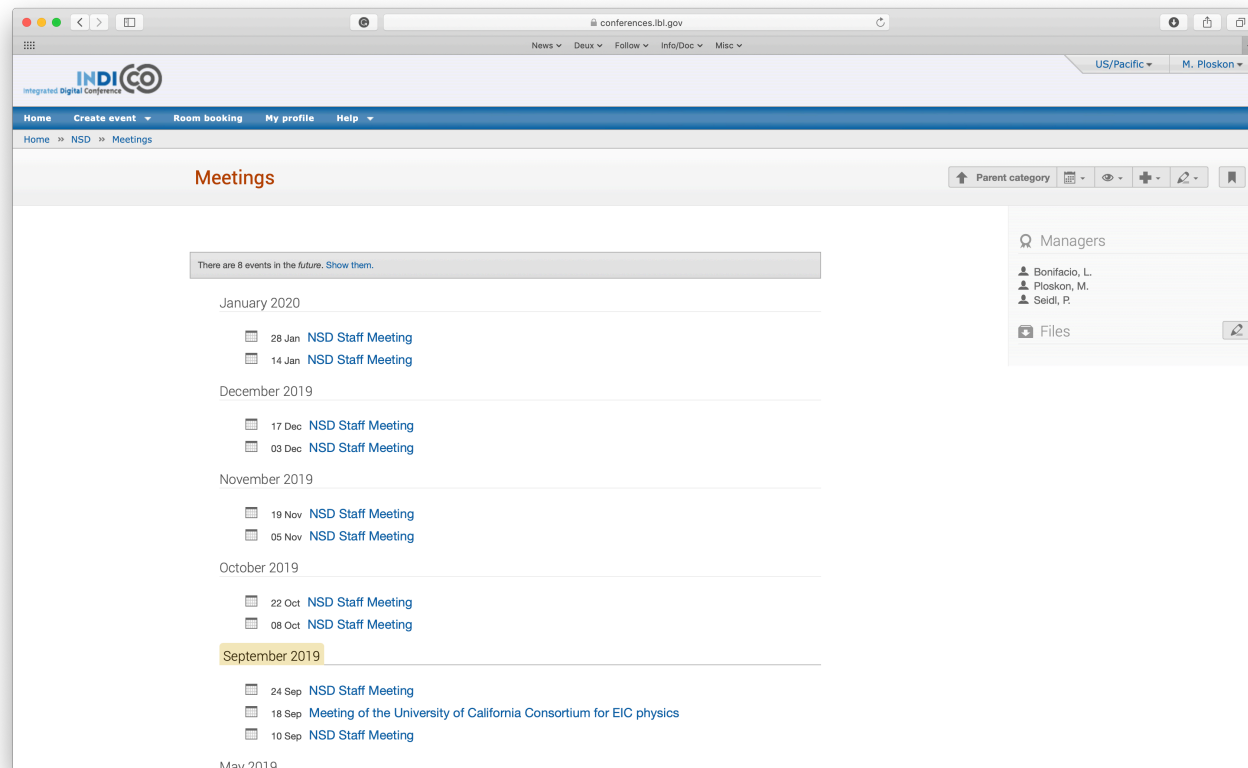

Time: 11 am – 12 noon
